Invest well.

How your plan works for you

Worry-free investing.

As a discretionary investment manager we make the investment decisions on your behalf. Our team of Portfolio Managers actively manage your assets, so you don't have to worry about monitoring your portfolio daily. As your fiduciary, we always ensure your best interests are aligned with the investments you hold.

100% Conflict-Free.

All investment decisions are based purely on the merits of a fund. We don't own any of the investments in the portfolio. We don't accept any referral fees or other incentives. We are structured to solely serve in your best interests.

Transparent fees.

At Open Access we fully disclose management fees and fund manager fees. There are no additional charges to rebalance your account. Simply put, we have nothing to hide.

Lower costs and pooling of assets.

When you are part of a group plan you generally pay lower investment management fees compared to your average individual investments. This is because by pooling our members' assets we can buy in bulk at institutional prices and pass the cost savings on to our members.

Retirement planning resources.

We know that retiring well takes more than just investing. This is why you will also have access to a variety of financial wellness resources such as webinars and booklets to help you with your retirement planning.

You can continue to contribute to your RRSP. Here's how...

Topping up your RRSP online is a quick and easy way to set aside some money each month for retirement.

With the Open Access Pre-Authorized Debit (PAD) Agreement option, you can contribute to your RRSP as often as semi-monthly.

You can choose from the following plan contribution frequencies:

- Monthly, on the 1st of the month ($50 minimum)
- Monthly, on the 15th of the month ($50 minimum)
- Monthly, both on the 1st and on the 15th ($25 minimum each)

Complete, date and sign the PAD Agreement form here:

Pre-Authorized Debit Agreement

Open Access will take care of all the details.

Contribution Limits

Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) sets limits on the amount you can contribute to an RRSP. This amount, your personal contribution limit, is shown on the Notice of Assessment you receive from CRA. You receive this Notice after filing the previous year's tax return. The contributions made to your RRSP, including employer contributions (if applicable) and those made by you, together with any contributions you make to your personal RRSP or a Spousal RRSP cannot be greater than your personal contribution limit.

Your RRSP contribution limit is 18% of your previous year's earned income to a maximum less any previous year's Pension Adjustment (PA) plus the current year's Pension Adjustment Reversal (PAR). The current year's net Past Service Pension Adjustment (PSPA) must also be deducted from your contribution limit (see below for additional information). You can also contribute 'unused' amounts from past years when you did not contribute the allowable maximum amount.

You are allowed a lifetime over-contribution amount to your RRSP of $2,000. You will not receive a deduction for this over-contribution. It will however continue to compound tax-free in your RRSP. Should you contribute more than $2,000, a penalty of 1% per month will be levied on any amount over $2,000.

Contributions made in the first sixty days of each year can be used to reduce your income for the current or previous tax year. You will receive a Contribution Receipt from Open Access for contributions made during the first two months of the year and another Contribution Receipt for the remainder of the year.

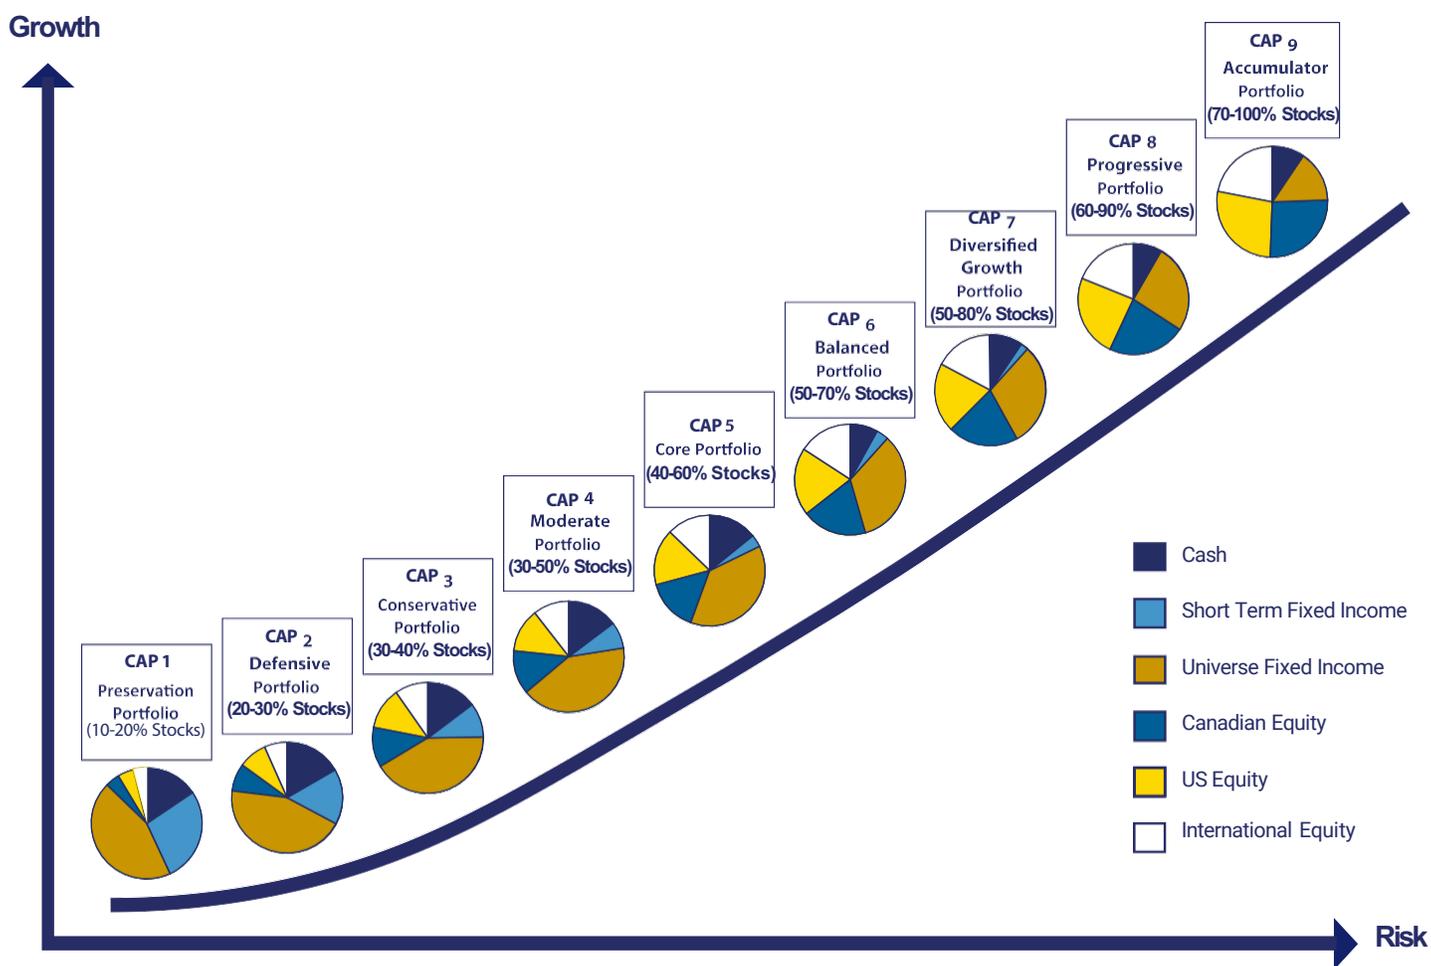

Please contact Open Access Limited to confirm the most up-to-date contribution limits.

PA - an amount that reduces the allowable contribution limit to an RRSP, based on the contributions made to a pension plan or deferred profit sharing plan on your behalf.

PAR - an amount that will restore RRSP contribution room to you. This applies when you receive a termination benefit that is less than your total PAs.

PSPA - an amount of reduction in an individual's RRSP contribution room due to the granting of certain additional past service benefits by an employer in a pension plan.

The Truth About Investment Management Fees

All mutual funds charge investment management fees which are paid to fund managers for their services. Shown below, for disclosure purposes, are the maximum investment management fees that could ever be charged as per our Investment Policy Statement. Contact our Client Relations team to get the actual current fees. Many institutions simply report the market value of your account after they deduct their fees, so you don't see what fees you're paying.

At Open Access, investment management fees are deducted directly from your account on a monthly basis, thereby letting you see exactly what you are being charged.

Open Access believes in full fee transparency.

¹ The maximum weighted average annual fund manager fee for each portfolio is quoted. The actual fee will vary based on the fund composition selected by Open Access for each portfolio. The maximum fees from dollar 1 are quoted; as assets increase for Open Access' entire client base, these fees will decline. These fee savings will be passed on to all Plan Participants.

² The actual weighted average annual fund manager fees as of September 30, 2025 are quoted. These fees could change if the present fund composition changes.

Frequently Asked Questions About OAL Investment Management & Administration Fee Rebates

1. What is a management fee rebate?

A management fee rebate is the rebate and reinvestment of additional units to the members' account. The investor receives a distribution of additional units of the CAP portfolio equal to the amount of the "discount" they are entitled to.

2. When and how will the management fee rebate be paid?

Management fee rebates will accrue on a daily basis (on all calendar days). They will be paid via a management fee reinvest transaction systematically processed into each eligible CAP portfolio/household account on approximately the 10th business day following quarter end.

3. How will the management fee rebate be calculated?

The management fee rebate amount will be calculated and accrued daily using the formula:

$$\text{Fund market value} \times \text{Proportionate percentage of applicable fund MV} \times \text{Appropriate tier MFR rate}$$

Days in a year

4. What happens when household assets are established mid quarter?

If a member transfers assets during any part of the quarter, and at quarter end holds the minimum threshold for the fee rebate, they will get the rebate on the portion of fees paid in the newly established account.

5. What happens if an investor redeems their assets before the next management fee rebate payment date?

The management fee rebate is only paid on the member account that still has assets in the account at the time of posting. The daily accrual of the management fee rebate will cease until the CAP portfolio/household meets the threshold again.

6. What happens if the market value drops below $125,000?

To maintain the preferred pricing status, members must maintain minimum balances across all qualifying accounts (book or market value) of $125,000. The greater of the two will be considered for eligibility in the Private Wealth Program.

Updating Personal Information

To ensure that your records are always accurate and up-to-date, we recommend that you notify Open Access Limited of any name or address changes due to:

- Marriage
- Divorce
- Name correction
- Address Change

A change in marital or parental status may cause you to change the beneficiaries you have designated in the event of your death.

Please see Beneficiary below.

Beneficiary

To ensure that any assets you have in your account are distributed according to your wishes, it is important that you provide detailed information about each of your beneficiaries:

- Name
- Address
- Social Insurance Number
- Beneficiary change (if you decide to designate a new beneficiary)

It is your responsibility to advise Open Access Ltd. promptly if you decide to designate a different beneficiary. You must complete a new Information Change form with the above information and mail, e-mail or fax it to the Open Access Client Relations team.

Trusted Contact Person

We highly recommend that you designate a Trusted Contact Person (TCP). Your TCP acts as a financial emergency contact and is an extra layer of protection for your financial well-being. The TCP cannot place trades or make financial decisions, access your account or private information or act as a Power of Attorney, legal guardian, trustee or executor. However, Open Access can reach out to them if there's ever a concern about your well-being or account safety. Who should you choose? Select someone who is mature and trustworthy, knows your situation and isn't already your Power of Attorney or trading authority. You can name a TCP as part of the online enrollment process. To change your TCP, submit a Trusted Contact Person Authorization Form, which will replace or revoke any prior designation. You can access the form at: https://openaccess.vasion.com/OpenAccess_Vasion/formName/23
